Exposed brick just hits differently. It's warm. It's industrial. It makes your space feel like it has stories to tell — even if it's in a new build. But tearing down drywall to get there? That's a hard pass. Thankfully, Stone Selex has a smarter way: realistic, easy-to-install faux brick panels.

Their Thin Brick Veneer collection gives you all the raw texture and vintage charm of reclaimed brick — without the dust, the weight, or the demo. Whether you're redoing a kitchen wall, giving your home office some edge, or turning a blank basement into your new favorite hangout, these panels bring instant character to any space.

And it's not just about looks. These panels are designed to go up fast and clean. Mount them over drywall or cement board with basic tools, and you've got yourself a wall that looks like it's been there for a hundred years. The colour options range from warm reds and worn whites to smoked greys and soft taupes, so you can dial in the exact vibe you're after.

Want something bold? Build a full brick accent wall in your living room or dining area. Going subtle? Add just a strip behind open shelving or a bar cart. You can even pair faux brick panels with faux stone panels or stone wall panels to create layered textures that feel custom and high-end.

And the charm doesn't stop indoors. These panels are durable enough to work in covered exterior spaces like patios and entryways, helping you build that industrial-meets-cozy look
