Ceicia contributes to conducting small and guided sessions, especially for those who can't communicate and are emotionally drained. Couples usually attend this session to overcome their repeated arguments, growing distance or misunderstandings that keep coming up at home.

The sessions look closely at Relationship Emotional Intelligence and how emotions actually play out in daily conversations. Couples bring up real situations from their own relationship and talk through what went wrong and why. Attention is given to everyday emotional triggers, the way partners speak during tense moments, and how simple disagreements slowly turn into arguments. Emotional Intelligence Training for Couples is based on open discussion and real-life examples, not theory or scripted exercises.
